

Full Spectrum Productions presents the Jamaica Hidden Histories, Sugar Was King exhibition, curated by Lorna Holder and supported by the Heritage Lottery Fund.

This is the culmination of a two-year project to uncover and showcase historical, cultural and economic links between Jamaica and Britain, and forms the final part of a UK gallery tour. Through oral testimonies in video and print format, and a collection of archival photographs, the display shows how sugar has left a legacy central to British and Jamaican heritage.

Jamaica, being the largest British Caribbean Island, was the Jewel in the Crown as they produced the most sugar. Sugar was king.
